Gentlemen:

In the New York "Times" for Sunday, May 8, 1960, an item was noted regarding a pamphlet, published by the Soviet Union in 1958, entitled "Ways and Means of Anti-Aircraft Defense for the Population." It was issued in Moscow by the publishing house of the Voluntary Society for Assistance to the Army, Air Force, and Navy. The caption of the article was, "Soviet is building its civil defenses." It was a "special" to the New York "Times," dateline Washington, May 7. A check with the New York "Times" and other agencies in New York failed to give me information as to where a copy of the original of this pamphlet could be obtained. Our library would be most grateful for any information as to the original title and a possible source for borrowing or purchasing a copy of this pamphlet, either in the original Russian or in a translation. Thank you for any assistance you may be able to furnish in this matter.

Very sincerely yours,

Katharine A. Winter
